3. Write a précis of the following passage and suggest a suitable title : 10
- "Good books are lengthening and brightening the lives of a multitude of people. Perhaps nothing else has such power to lift the poor out of his poverty, the wretched out of his misery, to make the burden-bearer forget his burden, the sick his suffering, the sorrowing his grief, the down-trodden his degradation, as books. They are friends to the lonely, companions to the deserted, joy to the joyless, good cheer to the disheartened, a helper to the helpless. They bring light into darkness and sunshine into shadow. Books are the food to the youth, the delight of the old age; the ornament of prosperity, the refuge and comfort of adversity; a delight at home, and no hinderance abroad; companions by night, in travelling, in the country."

UNIT-IV

4. (a) Read the following passage carefully and answer the question given at the end : 5
- "One of the great defects of our civilization is that, it does not know what do with its knowledge. Science has given us powers fit for the Gods, yet we use them like small children for example. We use them like small children for example. We do not know how to manage our machines. Machines were made to be man's servant, yet he was grown so dependent on them that they are in fair way to become his masters. Already most men spend most of their lives looking after and waiting upon machines. And the machines are very stern masters. They must be fed with coal and given petrol to drink and oil to wash with, and they must be kept at the right temperature. And if they do not get their meals when they expect them they grow sulky and refuse to work or burst with rage and blow up and spread ruin and destruction all around."

Questions :
